

Unified communications

When success hinges on communicating and collaborating anytime and anywhere, you need a unified communications strategy that can meet your hybrid workplace demands.

Unfortunately, traditional tools fail to fully foster productivity in the digital workplace.

That's because effective communication platforms need to connect people regardless of their device or location – with a unified architecture for calling, messaging, creating and sharing content, and more.

SHI helps organizations like yours leverage modern solutions to combine voice, video, and text platforms into unified workflows that improve productivity, enhance digital experiences, and alleviate pressure on IT.

How can you benefit?

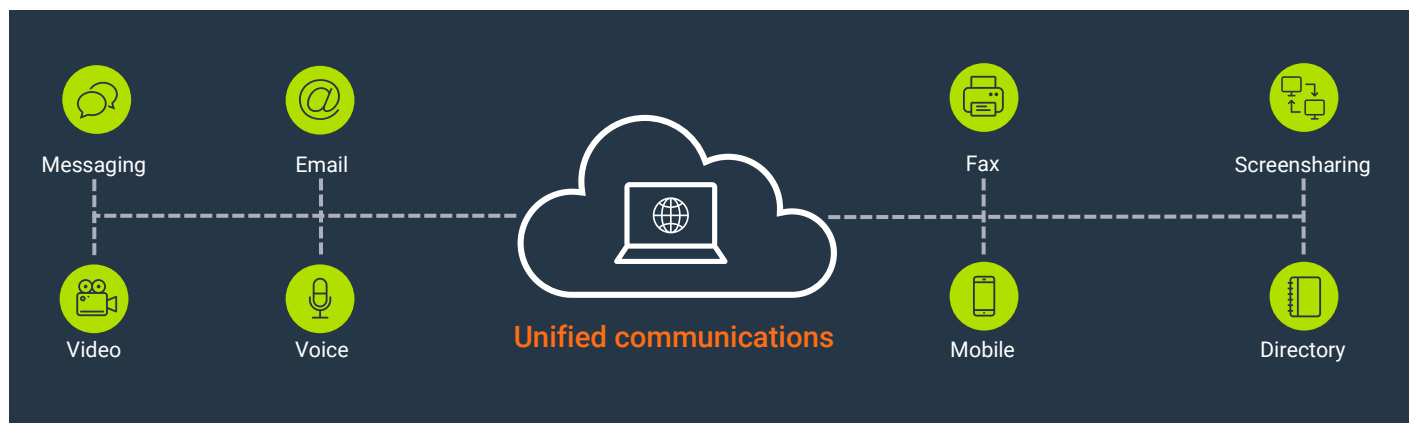

Extremely engaging: Collaborate and share content across mediums via a unified platform

Immersive experiences: Empower your users with a modern experience across their calls, chats, meetings, and file sharing

Equitable participation: Deliver impactful and equitable collaborative experiences for all your users

Easy to use: Streamline licensing and support via a single collaboration platform

Your entire collaboration suite, unified under one platform.

With SHI, you can redefine employee collaboration and solve what's next for employee communication.

Expertise: Reliable platform expertise and engineering support

Reduced costs: Lower TCO with our vendor relationships and UCaaS

Workshops and training: Ensure proper user adoption with our proven strategies

Trusted partner: Single point of accountability with round-the-clock governance and monitoring

Scalable and reliable: Accelerate deployment with repeatable processes, reducing business and transformation risks

Unified: Our UC suites fully integrate with your business applications and meeting room solutions

Support hybrid work: Understand your employee experience and enhance workforce productivity

Migration services: Transition from legacy on-premises systems to cloud-hosted solutions

Cater to users' needs with industry-leading UC platforms.

Book your free discovery session now!

Contact your Account Executive and learn how SHI can streamline your unified communications strategy.