

Handheld devices

Procure, activate, and ship devices at enterprise scale.

In today's hybrid work environment, handheld devices like tablets and smartphones are no longer optional. Whether supporting hybrid or remote employees, frontline teams, or mobile employees, handheld devices raise the bar for communication and allow for secure access to critical applications and data. But deploying them at scale can strain IT resources and delay productivity.

SHI works with you to find the right devices for your organization and ensure they are ready for your toughest challenges. From provisioning and SIM configuration to network testing, mobile device management (MDM) enrollment, and shipment, we are your end-to-end partner for mobile devices.

Handheld devices across industries

Handheld devices empower every part of your organization, not just office staff. By standardizing and streamlining device activations, your IT leaders can boost employee productivity, enable secure and instant communication, and deliver better experiences for employees and customers. SHI ensures your teams have the tools they need to drive measurable value for your organization.

Mobile device benefits:

- Boosted productivity: Work from anywhere with real-time access to data and apps.
- Improved security: Separate personal and corporate devices.
- Stronger communication: Respond quickly to emails and messages.
- Enhanced flexibility: Enable portable, agile technology for field and hybrid employees.

Streamlining the device activation process

With over 35 years of experience, SHI is ideally positioned as your handheld device activations partner. Our End-User Integration Center (EIC), a 305,000-square-foot secure facility, warehouses, configures, activates, and ships devices with precision and global scalability.

SHI's activation process fits seamlessly into your existing workflows. We enroll devices in your MDM platform, giving you complete visibility into device performance and updates. Our services reduce IT workload, simplify multi-carrier rollouts, and ensure your handheld device deployments run smoothly, no matter the deployment scale.

All managed through our valued partners:

Give employees the power to work from anywhere.
